Description

Located halfway between Dijon and Beaune, Nuits-Saint-Georges gives its name to the Cote de Nuits. "Les Boudots" is a Premier Cru of Nuits-Saint-Georges located on a very mineral hill. Brown calcareous soils finely gritty, based here on the pink limestone of Premeaux which outcrop by erosion. The presence of chert and limestone blocks, more or less rounded, make the soil stony near the rocky outcrops. The origin of the name of this Premier Cru remains uncertain, although the most likely hypothesis is the reference to a family of the same name who cultivated this plot, we can note that this last name is still widespread in the village.
