Louis Latour 2018 Gevrey-Chambertin

This intense, bright-fruited Pinot Noir begins with a delicate spray of violet and red-cherry perfume. Matured 10 to 12 months in oak (just 20% new), it offers ripe and penetrating red-plum and blackberry flavors, lifted by streaks of tart cassis acidity and a savory edge of stone and crushed earth. Tannins are a bit raspy in youth but the wine should hit peak from 2024 and improve through at least 2029.

Louis Latour 2019 Chambertin Grand Cru Cuvée Héritiers Latour

This wine's profoundly ripe black-plum and cassis flavors and svelte, spirited demeanor make it a fantastic expression of the appellation. Despite a maturation of 10 to 12 months in 100% oak, it's pristine in fruit, finishing on lingering notes of crushed white pepper and a salty, mineral crush. At peak from 2025 through 2040, the wine will hold longer.

Louis Latour 2019 Nuits-St-Georges

Soft, feathery tannins and luscious black-plum and boysenberry flavors make this ample, juicy Nuits-St.-Georges immediately approachable. Matured 10 to 12 months in oak (20% new), it's a rounded, pure-fruited red with just a touch of granite minerality. At peak now–2028.
